

From: Vinson Houston <vinsonhouston@yahoo.com>
Sent: Thursday, January 21, 2010 9:46 AM
To: secretary <secretary@CFTC.gov>
Subject: RIN 3038-AC61

In a true capitalistic society, citizens should be allowed the freedom to exercise what amount of risk they feel is appropriate as it pertains to making financial decisions. Once again, the retail investor is being put at a disadvantage to profit from the same opportunities afforded to the larger commercial investors. This body should strongly reconsider its decision to reduce the amount of leverage given to Forex investors. It is the ability to maximize leverage that makes this market such an attractive one for investors and provides them with the opportunity to maximize profits.

Thank you,

vlh