

From: gturner@datainsure.com
Sent: Wednesday, April 21, 2010 4:33 PM
To: secretary <secretary@CFTC.gov>
Subject: Public Comment Form

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (gturner@datainsure.com) on Wednesday, April 21, 2010 at 16:33:13

commenter_subject: Banks/Financial Speculators in Energy Commodities.

commenter_frdate: 4/26/2010

commenter_frpage: 75 FR 4143

commenter_comments: Here,below, is the opening paragraph in a news article today: This is the problem that banks are n trouble, and will be again, and this is why oil and gasoline are easily, running 15% overpriced during June 2009 to present.
GET THE BANKS OUT OD COMMODITY SPECULATION!!!

Stephen
Bernard, AP Business Writer, On Wednesday April 21, 2010, 3:43 pm

NEW YORK (AP) -- The nation's big banks have found the key to success while they wait for the economy to recover: aggressive trading of investments including bonds, currencies and commodities.

commenter_name: Greg Turner

commenter_firm: Global Energetics commenter_withhold_address_on: ON commenter_address1: 365 Oak Haven Drive

commenter_city: Lexington

commenter_state: SC

commenter_zip: 29072

commenter_phone: 8035136000
