To those that that are supposed to administrate a just market,

I am a silver investor. I play by the rules of actually owning physical silver. I do not trust paper contracts. Here is a recent article written by a former insider from Goldman Sachs.

It is unfair that the value of my investments are manipulated by massive paper sales which have 1/100 the value of what I hold physically. I am praying for divine judgment upon this corrupt system unless you choose to act. You have the power to bring justice to this portion of the system. I call on you to do the job you have been commissioned with.

Grace & Peace,
