Subject: Concentrated shorts in metals trading

Some people can be fooled but I don't think any of us investing in the precious metals market are anymore. We know that you know what the truth is. It is now becoming mainstream information so I urge you to man up and do your job in protecting fair and even play in these markets. I pray to God just once someone in this Government will take the high road. Manipulation by concentrated short positions and transparency must be dealt with and soon. From the statistics from last weeks markets I suspect that we will see another slap down in these markets soon and it will be even more obvious of the fleecing (sheer robbery) going on right under the nose of the regulators. For the sake of your own reputations do what is right.
