

From: Dennis Hamilton <ramble_32@yahoo.com>
Sent: Thursday, January 21, 2010 1:20 PM
To: secretary <secretary@CFTC.gov>
Subject: Regulation of Retail Forex

---

Hey, it's nice you allow folks to post comments about this upcoming 10:1 leverage proposal. The question is, will it do any good? Personally I think the whole thing is bogus. You should leave people alone and let them decide what to do with their money. Most people already know there are risks involved when they trade forex. If not, they find out quickly. If they are unable to develop a winning strategy, and begin to lose money, it's up to them to decide when to stop, not you. Also, there is nothing that says one has to open a "live" account immediately. One can always open a free demo account with just about any broker and learn the basics of trading that way. So, it's not like anybody is being rushed into anything. Got it?

Please reconsider your proposal. It's stupid.

Thank You,

Dennis Hamilton
ramble_32@yahoo.com