Subject: Gold and Silver levels of Concentration

Dear Sirs,

The concentrated short position of the bullion banks is distorting the free market price of gold and silver. While the Fed may encourage this in order to momentarily protect the dollar, this is very bad policy, for at some point there will be a price explosion instead of the orderly rise which would occur if market forces were at play.

The price explosion which will occur when prices can no longer be contained (by the use of concentrated short positions), will be chaos and is not in the country's best interest .

When it occurs the CFTC will be taken to task for not having done its job having allowed the concentrated short cornering of the market

yours sincerely

Thomas Unger
