

From: Randall Reinwasser <rreinwasser@gmail.com>
Sent: Friday, April 9, 2010 10:52 AM
To: Metals Hearing <metalshearing@CFTC.gov>
Subject: Precious Metal Position Limits

Dear Sir or Madam, Upon listening to the comments made during the CFTC's recent precious metals hearing, I'm convinced that the limit on silver and gold speculative positions needs to be dramatically reduced and enforced. By reducing the speculative position limit on the COMEX silver and gold market, there will be no opportunity for short-side speculators to manipulate the market. As I understand it, one of the primary purposes of the CFTC is to ensure that no manipulation exists in the futures market. By enforcing a limit similar to other markets, you can ensure all silver and gold investors that the market is in no way rigged or manipulated. Isn't that a reasonable expectation for the CFTC?

Thank you,

Randall Reinwasser