Subject: About 'Regulation of Retail Forex'

Hello, I'm an Argentinian operator concern about the 10:1 leverage regulation that CFTC it's analyzing to include, i believe that an operator should have the freedom of choosing the risks to take because in a democracy a human being can put his money in risk if he want and this is the same case, because all forex operator knows that trading forex it's not the most secure zone to have the money and the 10:1 leverage policy the only thing that can do it's avoiding a lot of US citizens to trade, and brokers migration to another country like the "not hedging rule" did, for me another mistake.
