

From: marmarteam1@aol.com
Sent: Friday, April 9, 2010 8:48 AM
To: Metals Hearing <metalshearing@CFTC.gov>
Subject: Silver Manipulation

Greeting;

I have been watching the silver market for over 30 years. Intuitively I would say there is manipulation in the market.

Why does a bank like JP Morgan have a huge short position in silver?

Why is there not a limit on Comex silver positions?

I have a very good credit rating and I have been banking with them for years. I had taken out a low "Life of the loan" rate a few years ago at 4.99%. Recently I paid them a day early on the account. Because it was a day early (my fault) it was not credited in the right month and I "was in default".

They raised my rate on the loan from 4.99% to 29%.

Perhaps if they paid more attention to their banking customers there would be no need to manipulate the silver market.

The depression the country finds itself in was caused by greed, manipulation and secrecy.

You now have your moment at center stage. Will your voice speak of truth or in time to come will you be like those pathetic Citi people who claimed they didn't know what was going on.

Martin Droz