

From: Hank Sageser <sresco@gmail.com>
Sent: Thursday, January 21, 2010 4:31 PM
To: secretary <secretary@CFTC.gov>
Subject: Retail Forex leverage restrictions.

Hello,

I and other associate traders I know believe that the proposed new Forex retail trading leverage restriction is the last thing that our economy needs. Professional traders do rely on this leverage to make a living, passing such a restriction would in effect leave many of us out of work . As the economy struggles this regulation would take away one of the main options many of us have for gainful employment. Also if overseas banks are able to take on our accounts this would hurt us banks. Jobs Jobs Jobs, it seems that the current politicians in power want to find every way they can to keep Americans out of work.

William Sageser
Full time Forex trader.