Subject: new margin

To whom it may concern,

I just received an email from MB trading about the new margin proposal from 100:1 to 10:1 and I am outraged by this. If I and the company are happy to back the higher margin rates why should we be dictated by someone else when we know the risks involved? I am 100% against changing margin rates and think it is unfair of the change.

thanks in advance for your response

James
