Dear Sir,

Thank you for the opportunity to give my comments and suggestions during your allotted public comment period. As an American, and U.S. citizen, I believe it is our right as well as our duty as citizens to make our voices heard when our country has problems that are obvious and need to be changed. Our country was formed and founded on ethics and morality that were to benefit and protect all citizens from criminal acts of injustice. Government was also formed on that basis and put agencies in place to protect citizens not to harm them.

At this moment in our country's history, there appears to be many significant problems with our financial markets and the agencies and regulations that regulate those markets. I believe the CFTC has an opportunity and an obligation by law to the American public/citizen; at this moment and time, to correct the issue of position limits for precious metals. We need to establish a:

- 1) speculative position limit in Comex silver of no more than 1500 contracts
- 2) restriction on any hedging exemptions from those limits to legitimate hedgers.
- 3) balance and stop the levels of concentration in comex silver that have taken place and allowed over the past years on the short side of the silver market

Sincerely,
Scott Strange
