Subject: Regulation of Retail Forex

To Whom it May Concern:

I have recently been made aware of the proposed new regulations on Forex trading margins. I wish to express my concern and anger should this be adopted. I have recently began trading and have had some success in supplementing my income through trading during these tough economic times. Should the new regulations pass, I will be unable to trade and would be forced to close my account. I am strongly opposed to any such strict regulation and I feel that I have the right to choose the amount of leverage appropriate for my risk level. Please reconsider. Thank you for your time.
