

From: Daz Aanenson <dazelon@hotmail.com>
Sent: Thursday, January 21, 2010 9:06 PM
To: secretary <secretary@CFTC.gov>
Subject: Regulation of Retail Forex

RE: RIN 3038-AC61

Mr. Stawick:

Restricting leverage and margins on forex trading IN ANY WAY is NOT the way to go!

Traders should be free to decide what and how to do their business. I must be free to spend/invest MY money on what I want. If I profit - fine, if I fail, it is a lesson for better decisions next time. I must be free to take that personal responsibility or not on what I do with my finances. Any government controls/restrictions will only hinder the process, not improve it.

If leverage or any other government restrictions are applied to any retail trading, especially Forex - at this time, will only help to slow or destroy any chance for the current US economic problems to improve any time soon - if ever, much less the world.

Can you say WORLD-WIDE DEPRESSION? You are asking for it with restrictions such as this! - and don't get me started on any proposed transaction tax - which is also a very BAD IDEA for the markets!

Sincerely,

Daz Aanenson

Hotmail: Powerful Free email with security by Microsoft. Get it now.