Subject: Regulation of Retail Forex

Dear Sir,

I am writing to voice my concern over the proposed new bill to reduce the leverage from 100:1 to 10:1 on retail forex accounts.

If successful, this bill will prevent many of the smaller retail traders from making a living. I've spent the past six years developing the skills required to trade for a living and now I've achieved my goal I find the regulators are proposing changes which will reduce my ability to make an income from the capital I have managed to save.

I sincerely hope that you will reconsider imposing such restrictions on the retail forex market. I realize that the bill is intended to protect investors but I feel the effect will be quite the opposite.

Yours faithfully,

David Sutton
