I have been trading 4x for 5 years and enjoying supplementing my retirement, averaging $200 per month. I live on a very small income and the years of learning the 4x trade have kept me alert and keyed into the world economies.
I can not and will be unable to maintain a 4x account with the new leverage proposal of 10:1. why not allow the individual trader to choose the leverage from 10;1 TO 100:1 based on their individual risk appetite and disposable risk monies.
most traders will move to offshore accts are you trying to close out the small traders in the US?
