Subject: proposed forex 10:1 leverage

Implementation of this proposal will have profound negative effects upon the retail forex industry. Individuals such as myself will apparently lose funding protection, but moreso these change will take away our opportunities to even dabble in this market since most small traders simply won't have the spare financial resources to effectively and successfully operate within the confines of the new restrictions. You would be taking away our hope, which oftentimes is worse than taking our money since money can be replaced.
