

From: Andrew D Lane <adlane@sbcglobal.net>
Sent: Friday, January 22, 2010 11:13 AM
To: secretary <secretary@CFTC.gov>
Subject: Outrage of Curtailng Retailing Forex Trading w/ extremely Low Leverage Ratios

With the utter and obvious manipulation of the Stock Market, you are now trying to restrict retail investment funds from one very bright spot which is the Forex. It is a wonderful trading market that operates all hours of the day, that the retail investor can learn and profit at. Leverages up to 100 to 1 must be kept for regular middle income customers to willing to try their hand at this marvelous vehicle.

Please allow the leverages to stay the same or nearly the same so that the retail investor can participate.