

From: Dwight Futrell Jr <dwrightfutrelljr@yahoo.com>
Sent: Friday, January 22, 2010 4:31 PM
To: secretary <secretary@CFTC.gov>
Subject: □Regulation of Retail Forex"--

RIN 3038-AC61

I am writing to you because far to long there has been a advantage in this system of the banks and big fat cats with the mega bucks . The little man needs to have a shot at getting a piece of this pie . The common man that if you didn't inherent a fortune you live with a monkey on your back for life , this is one way a person can gain and not by hurting anyone or taking something that does not belong to them . All these people in this trading world know the risk . but the reward is known as well . So to wrap up ,we all know the risk and and we do not want or need the amount that is to change . If it does change alot of people will start to rebell ,you take there hope of having that dream and that's there hope . I am not the only one that feels this way . I feel the leverage should not change because its a way of getting rewarded for learning about a pair and following it to know what the next move will be . I am done with this email with that !! Dwight Futrell