

From: Sherri Taylor <sherritaylor@yahoo.com>
Sent: Monday, January 18, 2010 10:08 AM
To: secretary <secretary@CFTC.gov>
Subject: Regulation of Retail Forex

---

I have always been a believer in the government and its intent until recent months. And now, I read that there is a push to limit retail account leverage on Forex to 10:1. While I could likely write a dissertation on the subject, I will simply say that limiting leverage is taking away the ability of the average joe, who is willing to study and work hard, to have their piece of the American dream - financial security. People can gamble their money away in casinos without someone standing over them dictating what they can risk. As an adult, it should be my choice, as long as I am made fully aware of the consequences of said actions. While I support having institutions be registered, the rest of the currency market trading rules and limits should be left as-is.

Thank you for your time and consideration.