I am against your proposed new regulation of the Forex markets. I use this market with its leverage to help supplement my income and to try to ensure a good future for my wife and I and our 3 daughters. Do you have any idea what college and 3 possible marriages will cost me??? If you alter its current structure you will be hurting many thousands of families like mine. If other traders can't manage their accounts or don't understand the risk involved they should stay out of this arena. I've lost money in this arena but did so with a level head and I need for this market to remain untouched by more government regulations and garbage. Please consider what I've said (and countless others) I'm assuming. Leave the Forex markets alone! Thank you for hearing me out
