Please do not limit the amount of leverage a forex broker in the US can offer. I have finally found a way to make a living with forex after I sustained a injury at my regular job. Now I can work at home by trading forex to earn a living. If you change the rules, I will not be able to return to a regular job (working outside the home) becuae of physical disabilities. Also, I have spend much time and resources getting an education to learn forex trading. Please do not change this rule. Thank you for whatever attention you may give this matter.
