Subject: Regulation of Retail Forex

RIN 3038-AC6:

I am an individual retail forex trader and I believe that in light of the recent major bailouts, one of the last true remaining capitalist. Whatever risk I take I must bare the consequences on my own and there is a trader on the other side to reap the reward, therefore leverage in the retail forex market presents no systemic risk. Liquidity is sufficient for the leverage that is provided so please leave the regulation as is (unless of course increasing allowed leverage is an option).
