Subject: the new leverage idea

please i am one of the traders in the forex market since 8 years and when i heard about the new idea concerning the leverage i told myself that it is the start of the going down of the us economy because as u know that the forex market is about 2-3 trillion usd daily and the us banks benefit of about 30-4-% of this market from the daily interest that's one, the second is that when this rule comes true all of the traders will go to and send their money to europe or any place where the leverage is still high this means that the us economy will lose hundreds of billions, the third one is that the brokers company will close or their activities will be lowered and these companies pay taxes so it will be a disaster from all sides, the important thing is that the trading using the leverage is the client's choice he had from 1:1 till 1:100 so don't minimize the choice for him especially if the trader wants to make good profit, this is my opinion with best regards
