

From: Brad Simmons <csmbh8c@yahoo.com>
Sent: Monday, January 25, 2010 3:13 PM
To: secretary <secretary@CFTC.gov>
Subject: Proposed CFTC Leverage Change

I will be direct:

I don't need your government agency telling me how much leverage is acceptable. You have taken away our trailing stops, our hedging options. Now you want to further protect us???????????

Are you kidding. You can't be serious. Do you really believe that we the investor need you to tell us how to manage our money, when your major financial institutions have had to borrow money from the tax payers in this country.

You are despicable and naive to believe that any investor would support another controlling rule, which limits their opportunity to become financially wealthy.

We know how to manage our money, we are not the major financial institutions in this country that went bankrupt. I will test my money management skills against any CPA working for a corporation, or government agency.

Bottom line:

Get life and find a responsible job. DO YOU REALLY THINK(OF COURSE NOT)

AJ Majersky