commenter_subject: Regulation of Retail Forex commenter_frdate: January 20, 2010 commenter_frpage: Vol. 75, No. 12 commenter_comments: It has come to my attention that there is a proposal up for consideration (Regulation of Off-Exchange Retail Foreign Exchange Transactions and Intermediaries) to implement the CFTC Reauthorization Act of 2008 (□□CRA□□) 1 with respect to off-exchange transactions in foreign currency with members of the retail public (i.e., □□retail forex transactions□□).

As a retail investor I find this proposal discouraging and unfairly restrictive to the average smaller investor. I sincerely hope that those elements contained in this proposal, which ultimately discourages retail investors from this market by imposing an extraordinary multiple increase in margin requirements, does not find it's way through the approval process.
