Subject: Regulation of Retail Forex

To Whom It May Concern:

I applaud efforts to regulate the Forex market for things regarding fairness, but I am totally against changing the leverage on Forex to 10:1. This is my livelihood and it would put me out of business. It would put all of the "little guys" out of business. I feel like it is again "Let's help the banks and institutions, but screw main street America". Plus, how would this be fair in the world market, where everyone else has 100:1 or more leverage in the Forex market. What are you people thinking????? Where is the "fairness" in this proposed regulation?

A very concerned citizen,

Jennifer Markey
