commenter_comments: I disagree where the limitations proposed to decrease the leverage available retail accounts being 10:1. The proposed reduction serves no real purpose to any retail account customers with the exception that retail account customers would therefore have to save additional financial resources to be able to effectively invest in the market leading to potentially more losses due to the higher accounts being utilized. A smaller account with leverage at 100:1 would allow retail account customers the benefit of participating in the market will losses being relatively benign in nature and acceptable to the retail account holders. Please change this bill to remove this particular clause.
