In regards to proposed regulation to further curb Forex leverage levels:

Enough is enough...please leave it alone already. Get rid of the Forex fraudsters...fine...great job!! But I am a 43 year old man...don't treat me like a 12 year old boy. Unless you are giving me money to trade with let me decide how much leverage to use in my own personal trading. Don't take away my freedom to speculate and define my own risk levels. Where does it end...are you going to tell someone that they can't speculate on a piece of risky real estate or they can't put their life savings down to open a restaurant? I don't see you at the blackjack table in Las Vegas telling anyone they can't bet it all on the next hand! We get it...we know Forex,as any investment, can be risky but let the individual manage his own money. Please!
