I believe that all traders should have the right to choose the amount of leverage that is appropriate for his/her risk appetite, and that this basic principle of 'choice' is being threatened by the proposed CFTC regulations. Forex market is a world wide market and I don't see a reason why a trader from England can have a higher lavatarage and USA traders can't. I believe our constitutional rights are threatened. We DO have the right to choose. If someone does not understand the meaning of risk he/she must take the consequences not the rest of us.
