Dear Secretary David Stawick,

As to the proposed leverage change for the retail Forex market in the US I am personally outraged. This can only be seen as a move to completely destroy the ability of low level traders to make a significant profit. I understand the US dollar is under pressure but to raise the margin requirements to these levels is ridiculous. What ever happened to freedom of choice. If this proposal were to be accepted it would show the international community that we as American's no longer believe in the strength of our currency.

Sincerely,

Ryan Rybarczyk
