To whom it may concern,

I am against the proposed regulations concerning retail forex trading. I believe that I should have the right to choose the amount of leverage that is appropriate for me. I am completely comfortable with the current 100:1 leverage. I am not a bank who screwed up and needed a taxpayer bailout. I completely take responsibility for my own decisions. If I lose all my money it will be my own fault, nobody else's. Please keep the current leverage requirement in place.

Thank you,
