I realize that a "regulatory" agency exists to make regulations. But there comes a time where it becomes out of control, almost a situation where more regulations have to be made to either justify one's job, or to placate their political masters. When all is said and done we will become Europe, which seems to be the goal of the current administration. (except even Europe isn't contemplating these kind of restrictions) I know that us "little people" will not have a chance of stopping this action no matter the objections of a vast majority of traders. We understand that people like Mr. Soros do not like us playing in their sandbox, and like the FDIC and IndyMac/OneWest deal the crooks will be given what they want by Mr. Obama and his regulatory agencies.
