Subject: Regulation of Retail Forex

Mr. Secretary,

It has come to my attention that the CFTC has submitted a proposal that would limit the amount of leverage available to a retail forex trader at 10:1. This is an intrusion into the realm of business, and no government entity has the right to limit an individual or a company on how much they can spend or make. Just because some fat cats on the exchange want to keep the real money making possibilities to themselves does not justify this move by the CFTC. Please rethink this issue and drop the proposal. Thank you for your time.

Regards,

Wesley Hunter
