Subject: Regulation of Retail Forex

RIN 3038-AC61

To Whom ever

My wife and I are small retail traders, we have a limited amount of funds to trade with. What drew us to trading Forex was the fact that we could trade with a small account while we learned what we were doing. If we lost our small account, that was our fault not some one Else's. We appreciate the regulations to filter out the unscrupulous dealers but feel that regulating our right to choose our own leverage will put small traders such as us out of the learning process
