

From: Lee Bryant <leebryant@mail2world.com>
Sent: Tuesday, January 19, 2010 2:25 PM
To: secretary <secretary@CFTC.gov>
Subject: Regulation of Retail Forex

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to express my strong objection to the 10:1 leverage restriction on retail trading. I believe this would greatly damage the entrepreneurial nature and incentives for people to trade and to turn their lives around, indeed the tenets of the foundation of the American Dream and Ideology. Education is the key not relentless micromanagement and a super restrictive trading environment. I am all for regulation, in a fair and transparent way to make the markets stable and robust, however this new rule would only hurt the retail trader, if it was being introduced for noble reasons such as the concern of overleveraging then it should be applied to large financial institutions and not the humble retail trader who has very little impact on the overall market. Myself and many fellow traders object to this rule wholeheartedly and will do whatever it takes politically to oppose such obstructions to the normal persons capacity to make themselves financially comfortable, indeed this rule would favour the rich and disadvantage the beginner trader immensely.

Hope you take the huge public opinion on this matter seriously.

Thanks in advance
Lee Bryant

Get the Free email that has everyone talking at <http://www.mail2world.com>
Unlimited Email Storage – POP3 – Calendar – SMS – Translator – Much More!