commenter_comments: I have been an active forex trader for the last 2 years, I have spent many thousands of dollars (in the USA) on training and I am just getting to the place where I am starting to make consistant profit and can start raising my stake.

To further reduce the leverage to 10:1 a tenfold reduction and a 1000% increase in leverage would mean that the funds required for me to operate an account in the US would be too much, I would close all accounts and have to trade from another country.

You would be excluding the very customers that this market serves.

I hope that you reconsider as I have put a considerable amount of time and money into this.
