Subject: Regulation

I strongly oppose changing the leverage in retail forex. I entered this market eyes wide open knowing full well of the benefits and pit falls, and believe it should be my choice. Where the leverage is now gives us the chance to do some good things (better than the lotto). I changed my investing habits to get into the market. Please do not change the leverages - if anything give more choices, don't mandate. If this is changed I will leave this market and look for something else that has the same opportunity that I have now.

Thank You
