Subject: Regulation of Retail Forex

Re: RIN 3038-AC61.

I want to object to the proposed reduction in leverage for retail forex trading. As an independent trader with a limited amount of capital available for trading the proposed regulation changes will adversely affect my income and my ability to trade the markets. I don't need a babysitter for my money! Please take into account the fact that leverage is often the one thing that makes trading foreign exchange a profitable endeavor. Without a good amount of leverage the small time trader might as well throw in the towel. Please don't do this to my income. I feel very strongly about this proposal!

Thank you,
