

From: Sean P. Wilson <sean.wilson@pve-inc.com>
Sent: Tuesday, March 16, 2010 12:41 PM
To: secretary <secretary@CFTC.gov>
Subject: New Leverage Rules

I am a small investor, and I've trading in the Forex market for the last couple of years -- carefully.

The change to the amount of leverage available to me is going to hurt only one group of investors: the small independent person like me. I don't think there's anyone that works with the Forex market that isn't aware of the volatility of this particular market, or its inherent danger-- that's a lot of the reason we're in it! We don't need to be protected by government by making it impossible to access this market. In the words of my seven-year-old: "That's just dumb."

I'm not sure I can make it any more plain, in this time of government giant-hand manipulation, and the resulting economic fall-out across the board: Stop. Messing. With. Stuff.

Sean Wilson
Senior Analyst
PVE, Inc.