

From: alc <alcentore@real-storage.com>
Sent: Friday, January 15, 2010 1:37 PM
To: secretary <secretary@CFTC.gov>
Subject: Regulation of Retail Forex

RIN 3038-AC61

Hello I wish to make comment on proposed rules change to retail spot forex.

NO !

Raising margin requirements knocks me out of a career and does not protect anyone.

All it does is make sure the game is safe for the Good Old Boy's.

If you want to protect the small investor who chooses to participate in retail forex then go after the stop hunters, regulatory oversight of the industry, and a mechanism to resolve disputes.

If you have any real dedication to protecting investors then you will rethink your proposal.

I am hoping this article's views are incorrect.

<http://forexmagnates.com/goodbye-us-forex-industry/>

Anthony Centore