Re: Proposed regulation of off-exchange retail FOREX transactions, RIN3038-AC61

Dear Sir:

I believe that those of us who choose to participate in the above referenced market would not be benefitted by the proposed regulation. This would only be another avenue by which government bureaucracy can and will intrude into business transactions where this intrusion is simply not needed. As many of the comments which you have received already point out much of the business could only be forced to move off-shore out of reach of the regulations if imposed.

Sincerely,

Paul Hickerson
