Dear Sir:

First of all thank you for your time as I know you are very busy. We appreciate you attempting to look out for retail forex customer in this new proposal, but I fear that the proposal is going to run much of the money out of the US and unto foreign shores. You may place stricter warnings for new forex traders and limit them to $1000.00 initially, but as adults we really feel that we should have the right to chose to do what we see fit with our money.

We would like to keep our money here in the US where it can do Americans the most good. Right now foreign brokers are looking much more attractive than US brokers because of these new regulations. Please help keep money in the US and leave leverage where it is currently.

Thank you
