CFTC Comments

Dear CFTC Comments:

While the thrust of this impending ruling is toward derivatives it is time for all regulatory agencies, Congress, the Administration and the American people to recognize this essential truth: That the American economy belongs to all Americans and that what any one individual does, whether under the legal cover of incorporation or not, affects us all. We have not just the right but the responsibility to insure that we control and focus the capitalistic energies which can only create great wealth when those energies are directed in ways which insure that all participants in creating and maintaining wealth are treated fairly and compensated according to their efforts.

Sincerely,

Sanford Silver
