Dear CFTC Comments:

How about simple transparency in your processes? How about a good deal of protection for the average American who gets unwittingly caught up in this speculative crap?

Keep your speculators in the dark? out and away from the sunlight? Hiding something?

I personally would like to see not limits, but elimination of the speculative markets. Speculation in oil and gas have done us no favors and the too big to fail banks used speculative processes to 'pay back' their loans-so in reality, we paid ourselves back as they skimmed and scammed once again.

Do something right for once and protect the people, not the merchants of greed.

Sincerely,

Jack Harrington
